

Cookie Policy

Effective as of 01.04.2025

This website contains cookies. This Cookie Policy contains information about the cookies used on this website and their purposes. This Cookie Policy may be changed from time to time with relevant notice on the website.

We use cookies to improve user experience, make the website work, enable site security and provide the business with marketing information about the website visitors ("you").

A cookie is a small text file stored on the visitor's device by the website. The cookie text files comprise numbers and letters. The cookie files are saved into special areas in the memory of your device. Cookies allow the website to recognise the visitor's device. Different cookies can have many different functionalities, but the most common ones are usually used for enabling different functionalities of the website (strictly necessary cookies), gathering statistics on the usages of the website and advertising purposes. For more information see www.aboutcookies.org.

Cookies used on this website are classified as follows:

Strictly necessary cookies - Strictly necessary cookies are first-party session cookies set by the website. These cookies are essential for the website to function properly. They enable basic features such as page navigation, access to secure areas, and form submissions. These cookies do not require your consent and we do not share any of your data collected by these cookies with any third parties.

Performance cookies - These cookies help us understand how visitors interact with our website by collecting anonymous information about usage and performance. This includes which pages are visited most often, how users move around the website, and if any errors occur. We use this data to improve website performance and design, to monitor technical issues, and to measure user engagement. These cookies may require your consent under applicable data protection laws.

Analytics cookies - Analytics cookies collect information to help us analyse how users use our website. This includes data such as how you found our website (e.g., search engine, referral), the time spent on each page, and any actions you take on the website (e.g., clicks, scrolls). We may use third-party services to help us with this analysis. These cookies may require your consent under applicable data protection laws.

1. Lawful basis for processing

We ask for your consent before we load any third-party cookies or cookies that are not strictly necessary into your browser or device. Strictly necessary cookies are essential to enable you to use the full functionalities of our website and therefore we are not required to collect your consent before using them. However, you are free to set your browser settings not to accept any cookies from the website, including strictly necessary ones, but this will exclude your access to some functionalities and services provided on our website. We may use from time to time other tracking technologies which allow us measure audience on our websites. Such tracking technologies' purpose is strictly limited to the sole measurement of the audience of the site or the applications (performance measurement, detection of navigation problems, optimization of technical performance or its ergonomics, estimation of the power of the necessary servers, analysis of content). Data gathered for this purpose is not shared with any third parties.

2. Cookie preferences

If you do not want to accept cookies, you can set your browser to automatically disable them or to inform you on each occasion when a website is requesting to add a cookie. You can delete any cookies you have accepted by adjusting the settings on your browser. Please refer to your web browser's help function to make the necessary adjustments.

You can set up your cookie preferences through our cookie consent banner when you first visit the website.

Please note that some of our website's services and functions may be restricted if you choose to set your web browser to block all cookies.

If you have any specific questions or concerns about cookies, please contact Admirals' appointed Data Protection Officer at: dpo@admiralmarkets.com.

We are committed to keeping your personal information safe. For more information on how we handle your data, please see our Privacy Notice.
